PATIENT-FIRST CARE

The redesign changes the perceived quality of the practice

Pitch-ready today.
Production-ready after focused operational work.

The redesigned concept is a significant step up in visual trust, information hierarchy, mobile presentation and clinician visibility. The remaining gaps are not design problems; they are launch integrations, verified content, technical SEO and performance optimization.

THE CORE OPPORTUNITY

Make confidence visible

The practice already offers broad care, specialist experience and flexible access. The new design finally presents those strengths with the clarity and polish patients expect.

HEURISTIC EXPERIENCE SCORE / 5 POINT SCALE

Brand clarity  2 → 5

Content hierarchy  2 → 5

Mobile experience  2 → 4

Patient trust  1 → 4

Conversion path  2 → 3

Accessibility  2 → 4

Scores are expert heuristic ratings based on the audited screens and code, not automated Lighthouse results.

A credible practice presented through an inconsistent template

The first impression is clinical, but not distinctive.

- Navigation is visually crowded and lacks a clear primary patient journey.
- The hero establishes location and dentistry, but does not explain why this practice should be trusted or chosen.
- Finance dominates the lower hero while booking and contact actions compete for attention.
- Typography, spacing and imagery feel assembled from different systems rather than one intentional brand.

BUSINESS EFFECT

Patients may perceive a gap between the practice's clinical capability and the quality of its digital experience. In healthcare, that gap can become a trust and enquiry-conversion problem.

Visible unfinished content creates avoidable doubt

What patients can see

01 Copy errors

Service wording includes 'Meal-free with no mercury', 'ROOT CANAL TREAT' and 'Loose the nerve, not the tooth.'

02 Mixed visual quality

Photography style, crop, lighting and treatment imagery vary widely across the same grid.

03 Placeholder biographies

Five team profiles display raw Lorem Ipsum, directly undermining clinician and staff credibility.

Trust-sensitive pages cannot look unfinished. Every biography and service claim must feel deliberate.

A calmer, clearer and more memorable first impression

01 Human proposition

Emotion-led headline balanced with specific clinical scope.

02 Credible visual focus

Authentic practice imagery, intentional cropping and supporting proof points.

03 Clear conversion

One primary consultation action, supported by exploration rather than competition.

The redesign turns information into a guided decision

TEMPLATE-LED PRESENTATION

Crowded navigation • generic hierarchy • inconsistent brand signals • weak path to action

PATIENT-LED EXPERIENCE

Distinct proposition • focused proof • modern visual system • deliberate consultation journey

The new design makes the practice feel as considered as the care it promises.

Move the person patients choose to the centre of the story

FROM A CROWDED TEAM GRID

Small portraits, mixed crops and unfinished biographies ask patients to work too hard to understand who is responsible for their care.

TO A CLEAR CLINICIAN MOMENT

A confident portrait, visible credentials, concise experience statement and supporting proof create immediate reassurance.

Service clarity supported by a signature visual moment

we'll talk through the options and shape a plan around you.

WHY THIS ADDS VALUE

Memorable, not ornamental

- Treatment cards group the offer into understandable patient needs.
- The 3D tooth creates a recognisable visual signature for digital outreach and presentations.
- Motion reinforces precision while reduced-motion support keeps the experience inclusive.

Replace neon energy with warmer confidence

The lime accent is energetic, but it reads more tech than care.

The deep navy is worth keeping: it gives the site authority and makes the photography feel crisp. The accent should become warmer, quieter and more human. These three directions preserve contrast without falling back into the usual blue-and-green dental palette.

01

Warm copper

#D7875F

RECOMMENDED

Human, crafted and premium. It softens the navy while remaining distinctive and works well across general, cosmetic and specialist care.

02

Soft coral

#FF765F

EXPRESSIVE

Contemporary and welcoming with more personality. Best if the practice wants a slightly bolder cosmetic and lifestyle feel.

03

Champagne gold

#D7B66F

ESTABLISHED

Quietly premium and assured. Especially strong for implants and specialist positioning, though it needs careful contrast treatment.

DESIGN RECOMMENDATION

Keep navy as the anchor. Replace lime with warm copper.

The mint can remain as a restrained supporting wash, but copper should carry buttons, highlights, orbit details and the primary logo accent.

The visual impact survives the smaller screen

Mobile is not an afterthought.

- Readable type hierarchy without flattening the brand personality.
- Touch-friendly navigation and full-width actions.
- The clinician portrait remains clear and uncropped.
- Decorative motion and depth adapt to the available space.

CHECKED AT 390 × 844

Strong foundation with a short, explicit launch list

What passes

- One clear H1 and logical heading hierarchy
- Header, nav, main and footer landmarks
- Meaningful alternative text on all content images
- Labelled form fields and native required states
- Visible keyboard focus and reduced-motion support
- No browser console errors or missing local assets

What must be finished

- Connect the appointment form to a monitored destination
- Restore click-to-call and WhatsApp contact routes
- Trap and restore keyboard focus in the modal
- Compress the two large PNG assets and add responsive sources
- Add canonical, schema, social metadata, robots and sitemap
- Verify every clinical, NHS, finance and availability claim

What creates growth

- Dedicated treatment landing pages
- Verified reviews and professional registrations
- Google Business Profile and local search alignment
- Privacy-safe conversion analytics
- Emergency-care and location-led content
- Post-launch testing using real calls and booking data

Note: automated Lighthouse and Core Web Vitals scores should be captured only after the final production URL is deployed.

A practical route from prototype to patient-ready website

P0

Before live traffic

- Connect and test appointment delivery
- Add phone and WhatsApp
- Approve all clinical and availability claims
- Publish privacy information

P1

Before public launch

- Optimize responsive imagery
- Complete modal accessibility
- Add technical SEO foundation
- Publish authentic team and trust content
- Test production across browsers

P2

First optimization cycle

- Connect privacy-safe analytics
- Test CTA language and placement
- Add verified review modules
- Build emergency and local-search routes
- Review 30–60 days of enquiry data

The design is already doing the persuasive work. The next investment should make it operational, findable and measurable.

FINAL ASSESSMENT

The prototype proves the opportunity. Now make the promise real.

MODERN CARE, THOUGHTFULLY
DELIVERED

The redesigned experience is clearer, more distinctive and more trustworthy than the current public site. Its strongest sales story is not animation alone; it is the way visual craft, clinician visibility and a calmer patient journey work together.

Art meets precision.

Advanced planning, considered treatment and clear communication come together to create care that feels as good as it looks.
